The South Devon coastal town of Dawlish and its close neighbour the resort of Dawlish Warren, are renowned for their beautiful beaches and outstanding coastal walks. The 2.1km stretch of beach between Dawlish and Dawlish Warren is widely considered the jewel in the crown in the South Devon Coastline and is instantly recognisable by the nearby red Langstone Rock. The popular beach sits at the mouth of the Exe Estuary and is home to the National Nature Reserve, which is a vibrant wildlife haven to a number of rare species of bird and plant life.

Dawlish Warren Beach is celebrating an impressive 21 consecutive years of being awarded a prestigious Blue Flag award. The acclaimed Blue Flag shows they have passed tough criteria for environmental management, visitor facilities, cleanliness and clean bathing waters.

Environmental charity Keep Britain Tidy also recently announced that Dawlish Main Beach and Coryton Cove at Dawlish had retained their Seaside Awards. The independently assessed seal of approval is awarded to beaches that achieve very high quality standards excellent cleanliness, safe access and appropriate signage.

Teignbridge District Council's Managing Director, Phil Shears, said "This is fantastic news and I take great pride in saying our Teignbridge beaches are amongst the best in the country. These awards don't come easily and are testament to the hard work put in not only by our outstanding Resorts team but also local volunteers who support the environment. Thank you to everyone involved and I'm hoping it will be a brilliant summer that will attract locals and visitors alike to our award winning beaches."

Jo Butler of Visit South Devon said "We are absolutely delighted that Dawlish Warren Beach has retained this highest of environmental accolades. To have achieved Blue Flag status for 21 consecutive years is truly flying the flag for South Devon. The award reaffirms to our local communities, businesses and visitors that our region has fantastic quality beaches. If you haven't visited Dawlish and Dawlish Warren yet, please do come and have a look"

Dawlish town has also been awarded Silver by dayoutwithkids.co.uk, as one of the best seaside towns in the UK 2019. The results were based on feedback from over 2,000 families.
